

AID WASTE.

Acres of Boston Buildings Wrecked by Fire.

How Many Lives Were Lost Is Not Yet Known.

ONLY A PARTIAL LIST OF FATALITIES AND THE INJURIES OBTAINABLE.

Thrilling escapes of firemen and inmates of the burning buildings—District Chief Egan's miraculous rescue—Order, but not used—Fire machines summoned from surrounding towns—Nearly $6,000,000 worth of property destroyed.

BOSTON, Mass., March 11.—The revised but still incomplete list of killed and injured in last night's fire is as follows:

DEAD.
LEOBARD REED, partner in the firm of Reed & Sons, manufacturing Co., boots and shoes, Boston, died from multiple injuries at the City Hospital.

FRED MEADOWCRAFT, Cambridge, 23 years old, jumped from the third-story and fell on his head, died on the way to the hospital.

JOSHUA SHEPARD, 84, Cambridge, jumped 20 feet to sidewalk and received injuries to his ankle.

CHARLES WELLS, jumped from a third-story and received multiple injuries, condition critical.

MICHAEL HARKINS, Boston, 20, caught between ladder wagon and express wagon while helping to pull a ladder out received a blood tumor on the thigh.

MRS. ADA HERRIN, aged 22, jumped from a third-story window on Lincoln street and received multiple injuries.

ROBERT RESTRICT, ladderman, Charleston, fell from a ladder, breaking two ribs and receiving internal injuries.

MARGARET FLYNN, stenographer for Redpath Bros., Winchester, scalp wound.

TOM GIBLIN, engine No. 9, cut on head, has broken thumb.

BENJAMIN POND and MR. RICH, members of steamer No. 1, Somerville, injured by falling walls. Mr. Rich was seriously injured.

THE DESTROYERS AWAKENING.

In the wholesale business district, where yesterday morning stood costly and magnificent business houses, to-day are nearly four acres of smoking ruins, bounded on the north by Essex street, east by Lincoln street, south by Tufts street and west by Kingston street.

When the fire first broke out, men, women and children were soon aware that a repetition of the fire of 1872 had started, but the danger seemed greater than at that time, and as a natural consequence a regular panic ensued. The fire chief, who had been called to the scene, took in the situation instantly, and in addition to calling for outside help to fight the fire it seemed best to call out the militia to assist the police in preserving order. The 1st and 9th Regiments and two naval battalions were ordered under arms, but happily the firemen succeeded in checking the progress of the fire, and the threatened panic was averted.

The fire started the wind was blowing a gale, and as soon as the flames had gotten under headway, it increased to such violence that the firemen were in great danger of being blown from the top of the buildings, which offered the only available places from which the fire could be fought. The wind sucked the blazing contents from the buildings and carried them for blocks. As these brands fell they started fires in a score of places, but the danger had been foreseen and the fire was confined to the district in which it started.

FIRE WAS GAINING HEADWAY.

Fire was gaining headway every minute and hotter and hotter from 4:30 to 5 o'clock. The whole of the great building of Horace Partridge & Co. was a mass of flames, and the reports of falling floors and exploding stone sounded like cannon in the distance. Rockets, bengal lights and other fireworks flamed up in a rattling series of explosions, and whole flights of rockets sailed up over the flames, shedding brilliant colors that mingled with the glowing fire of the fire.

Even when the fire was going on the impetuous flames were crowding through the flames and jumping from the windows. The excitement in the street was intense. The firemen spread their fire nets and caught many, but the human bodies dropped so fast that it was impossible to catch all. Those who landed in the net were shaking up. The poor fellows who struck the pavement are either dead or dying or crippled for life.

The rapid spread of the flames had a tendency to make the oldest fireman look in amazement.

A CALL FOR HELP.

Acting Chief Egan, seeing that the fire was getting the better of the fire ladders, telephoned to the surrounding cities for aid, and engines were sent from Malden, Cambridge, Somerville, Waltham, Newton, Chelsea, Lynn and Medford. It was a wicked looking fire, but the Boston firemen had it under control before the men from the outside cities arrived at the scene.

The fire originated in the Ames building occupied by Horace Partridge, a large dealer in toys and small ware, and inside two hours the cluster of buildings covering the territory mentioned were in ruins, the loss to buildings alone being over $1,000,000 and stock buildings over $2,000,000. The fire is characterized as one of the worst that has ever visited this city, even greater than the fire of 1872.

A great loss of life and property the flames were checked at about 6:30 o'clock and work was then begun to care for the dead, dying and injured, who had to be removed several times during the fire, the majority of whom were confined in the Emergency Hospital when that building became enveloped in flames.

The fire started in the Ames building, which was reached by the firemen, building where the fire originated the flames were pouring from every window and so dense was the smoke and the fire so hot the firemen were forced back knowing that it was impossible to reach. From the third floor, where the fire originated, the flames were pouring out of all above the fourth floor. It was impossible last night to tell who was in the building, which was also consumed. The firemen said there must be many who were in the building, but they saw four firemen fall back, and another similar fall back on the opposite side of the building.

JOHN EGAN'S AWFUL EXPERIENCE.

The intense heat of the Partridge building was so great that the firemen who were in the building were forced to jump. The firemen who were in the building were forced to jump. The firemen who were in the building were forced to jump.

TO FILL VACANT PLACES.

Chicago Railway Officials Preparing for the Switchmen's Strike.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 11.—Since the rumors of a general strike among the switchmen of Chicago were started some time ago the general managers of the Chicago roads have not been idle, and to-day they have enough men engaged to fill every place left vacant by the strikers.

At the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Co. a prominent manager in an interview, "since we first felt sure that the switchmen would ask for an increase in wages and would probably strike if their demands were refused, the managers of all the Chicago roads have been quietly at work securing men to fill their places. It has been no trouble whatever to secure men in the East who are willing to come to Chicago to work on the railroads."

The Chicago & Eastern Illinois Co. has been at work the past two days securing men to fill the places of the strikers. The Chicago & Eastern Illinois Co. has been at work the past two days securing men to fill the places of the strikers.

At the switchmen's headquarters everything is quiet. Grand Master Wilson and Vice-Grand Master McQuinn are waiting for the strike to begin, but they will probably settle the matter one way or the other.

COMING FROM PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, March 11.—Nearly 200 men left this city last night on a special train of four cars which pulled out of the Pennsylvania Railroad Broad Street Station at 11 o'clock for Pittsburgh.

All of them were under contract with agents of this city to take the place of the strikers on the roads centering in Chicago. It is believed that the men are to be followed by 500 more from Pittsburgh and New York.

REFUSE TO HANDLE CARS.

TOLEDO, O., March 11.—The Lake Shore engineers have refused to handle Ann Arbor cars, but as yet the officials have not ordered them to do so. Nearly all the high officials of the Lake Shore company are here in Toledo, and the engineers are waiting for a word from the officials.

The Ann Arbor is totally disabled to-day as the three cars which were under contract with the Lake Shore company are being handled by the Lake Shore company.

RAGING FLOODS.

The Grand River Threatening Muir and Lyons—Destruction in Nebraska.

Muir, Mich., March 11.—The expected ice gorge has formed in Grand River, about three miles down, extending thence up to within a few rods of the Lyons dam. When this open space is filled in with ice, the course of the river will be again turned through the streets of Lyons.

At Muir the water is already at the highest point reached during the flood of 1891. Persons living on Main street, east, have been forced out by a foot of water on their floors. CAPITOL VS. LABOR.

That Was the Issue in the Missouri Senate Yesterday.

AND CAPITAL WON WHEN THE FELLOW-SERVANT BILL WAS KILLED.

The Record Made Yesterday by the Wearers of Toga Was to Be Remembered by the Men Who Vote on Election Day—Honorable Senators Who Changed Their Votes Without Apparent Cause.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 11.—The amended and mutilated remnant of the original "fellow servant" bill introduced by Senator Baskett of Missouri yesterday afternoon in the Senate at a late hour yesterday afternoon. As one of the representatives of the Missouri Employers' Association put it, it was slain in the house of men who pretended to be its friends. The circumstances attending the defeat of the bill were nothing short of contemptible and the upper branch of the Missouri Legislature, or at least a considerable portion of it, has shown the reason to feel ashamed of its conduct. But it is not the members who voted the measure who ever feel that way.

The remains of Senator Baskett's bill were assigned to the Senatorial cemetery yesterday afternoon by a vote of 10 to 18, and there were six or seven who voted for the bill, but it takes eighteen votes to pass a bill in the Senate, and it was accordingly defeated. The vote was recorded on the rolls as follows:

Ayes—Senators Baskett, Cochran, Dockery, Dunn, Espenschied, Gash, Harrison, Hines, Kennish, McIntire, Stark, Weeks, Gardner and Yenor.

Noes—Senators Bradley, Brooks, Collier, Drum, Hendrickson, McDaniel, Newberry, O'Connell, Ranner, Sebree, Stephens, Taggart and Tamm.

Absent—Senators Bledsoe, Busche, Love, Lyman, Morrissey and Walker.

Senator Lyman was away on account of a death in his family, but Senators Cochran and Walker were in the city, but did not attend the afternoon session.

The charge made by Senator Cochran two weeks ago that the methods of the opponents of the bill were "disreputable and cowardly" was repeated yesterday. Two weeks ago the opposition had been accused of "disreputable and cowardly" methods, but now the charge was repeated, being that a few dissenting votes were being secured by "disreputable and cowardly" methods.

The charge made by Senator Cochran two weeks ago that the methods of the opponents of the bill were "disreputable and cowardly" was repeated yesterday. BOARDS DECLARED FORFEITED.

Judge Edmunds Continues His Rigid Court Policy.

A number of bond forfeiture cases were argued in the Criminal Court today. Judge Edmunds entered final orders of forfeiture in four of the cases and ordered judgments to issue. The judgments are directed against Benjamin Jackson, bondman for William Dunford, the bond being for $800; William Brown, bondman for John Ryan, $1,000 bond; William Cochran bondman for William Austin, $200 bond, and against Katherine, bondman for John Dine, $1,000 bond. Twenty other cases were laid over for argument in six cases, raised the point that the court had no jurisdiction, but the motion was overruled.

Struck by a Train.

POPULAR BLUFF, Mo., March 11.—Railroad men found the body of a man lying in the water beside a trestle just south of town this morning, which proved to be that of Dr. W. L. Warne of Williamsport, Mo. Marks on the body indicate that he had been struck by an engine and killed.

The passage of the pension bill in the Senate yesterday was no surprise whatever to those who followed the course of the bill. It was expected that it would be passed by a large majority.

This is a record-breaker in the present session of the Missouri Legislature, and it was a record-breaker in the history of the Missouri Legislature.

Late yesterday afternoon when the House was in committee of the whole considering the bill, the bill was passed by a large majority.

CHINESE CURIOS.

A HANDSOME SWORD WHICH IS CONSIDERED A RARE TREASURE.

Special Correspondence POST-DISPATCH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 11.—The many odd and curious things made by the Chinese, and available for collections of curiosities are described in a very American way by Consul Reddie at Amoy, in China. Mr. Reddie says:

Few collectors in the United States are aware of the wealth of curiosities made by the Chinese. There is an army of connoisseurs among the rich Mancholians, but they display little or no energy in accumulating art treasures. If they see something that strikes their fancy and they are satisfied with the price, they take it without a murmur. If he is to be taken beyond what they regard as a fair limit, they walk off in high dudgeon. As a consequence, the curio market has few ups and downs. Nevertheless, it does an immense business the year through. The best patrons are naturally wealthy natives. Then come European collectors and experts. Ship captains and missionaries are also buyers of considerable importance. Last and least are the collectors of the United States.

On account of the changes wrought by time, many of the martial instruments are so incongruous as to be positively funny. For example, the Mongolian warriors did their fighting on horseback, and one of their most formidable arms was a pole which was attached a hook edged on the inside like a rapier's scabbard. With this they would pull a rider from his steed, wounding or killing him in the action, or would hamstring the horse at a single stroke. This pole hook is no longer used by the few cavalry squadrons of China, but is found carried by footmen in nearly all the retinues of great nobles. It looks formidable, but when used by infantry against infantry would be about as serviceable as a wooden club fastened securely to the end of a broomstick.

I have never seen any lances. The deficiency is made up by a surplus of spears and halberds. Of these the designs are varied, running from light and efficient points and edges to grotesque and hideous shapes that would frighten more than they would hurt. These spears are used with great admiration. A spear captured by the French from the Black Flags in Tonquin is 8 feet long. The shaft is of ironwood, round, polished and varnished, and reinforced with three or four wrappings of fine copper wire, and at the upper end is incrustated the distance of a foot with mother-of-pearl. It is decorated with a large copper band, in which is set the spearhead. The spearhead is of fine steel, 6 inches in length and triangular in cross section. One face is deeply grooved so as to allow a large amount of thrust, and the other face is a sharp point which pleases the artist's fancy is carved a human figure. They are out of perspective and out of proportion in every respect. The French soldiers for years fought on a bridge whose timbers are like matches. Two lovers are trembling in a cavern, while the girl's irate father, as large as a hawk, confronts them as the intruders. A horse whose head is larger than his trunk is about to be devoured by a dragon the size of a mouse. So the picture is a study in grotesque and the ludicrous unnaturalness of the workmanship excites admiration. The infinite patience with detail, the enormous labor expended upon the work, the charming aromatic effect from the well-chosen colors of the statette are worthy of a high and noble art. These dramatic pictures are not overcast. They range from the simple to the complex. The native artist is a poor painter, but he is a good craftsman. He is a poor painter, but he is a good craftsman. He is a poor painter, but he is a good craftsman.

Weather forecast for 36 hours beginning at 8 a. m. to-day: For Missouri: Generally fair, preceded by local rains in eastern portion to-day; colder Sunday morning; probably warmer Monday.

The storm center yesterday in South Dakota has moved northeastward to Lake Superior, causing local showers quite generally throughout the central valleys. To the east of the Mississippi River there has been a considerable rise in temperature, except along the Atlantic coast, while to the westward it is considerably colder.

St. Louis forecast: Fair; colder Sunday morning; followed by warmer.

These brave ladders will not be turned out to starve hereafter when they get disabled by age or accident.

The disgruntled ex-office holders of the Democracy should remember that turn about is fair play in politics as in all other games.

The fate of the fellow-servant bill and other popular measures suggests the question whether the people or the corporations are sovereign in this State.

MR. CLEVELAND thinks it as bad to misappropriate an office as to misappropriate money. Which shows that he would rather be right than be "practical."

As Mr. CLEVELAND and Mr. Hill have shaken hands and talked pleasantly, there is not some way to bring Gil Shanks and Isaac Pusey Gray together for a bit of genial converse?

THE Western bankers are willing to give the Federal Treasury all the gold it needs for non-interest bearing notes. If those Wall street fellows had not forgotten how, they would blush for their meanness.

JOHN CHINAMAN is getting into the land of the free on fraudulent papers. The more he is asked to stay out the more he wants to come in. Exclusion has not excluded him to any great extent so far.

MR. McKINLEY made his bill with the purpose of checking importations, yet the importations have increased so much that they are mentioned as one of the causes of the drain of gold. McKinleyism has proved a failure in every direction.

If there is to be no hurry about making changes, and Washington boarding-houses do not reduce their rates, the cost to pilgrims seeking places under the new Administration will leave them very little margin for car fare to the Columbia show, even if they get what they are after.

SENATOR HILL might annoy the President by invoking the "courtesy of the Senate" were it not that Richard Croker, the great and only, has determined to support the Cleveland Administration through thick and thin. Croker is all that stands between the Senator and effacement.

MAYOR INGRAM of Portland has refused to accept his certificate of office because he has reason to believe that frauds were committed in his interest by a judge of election. We call the attention of the World's Fair management to this opportunity to secure a rare and valuable curiosity of American municipal politics.

POSTMASTER-GENERAL BINSWELL will require all the new postmasters to devote their entire time to post-office business. It may seem a great hardship for an official to be expected to earn his entire salary, but human adaptability is great, and a man can accustom himself to the most extraordinary changes if he has sufficient faith in his own resources.

THE Maine man who refused to accept the Mayorship of Portland because he entertained doubts as to the "accuracy of the election returns," evidently knows nothing of "practical politics." As expounded by that eminent statesman, Thos. B. Reed, victory is the objective of every partisan, intermediate considerations being not worth thinking about. Experienced politicians often have very droll opinions.

The citizen who held office under Mr. Cleveland during his first term, and who is again seeking a place, must be content to wait for the election of another Democratic President. In his disappointment, however, he should remember how very few are the offices compared with the number of applications for them, and that if he were to be reappointed after having already enjoyed the honors and emoluments of office for four years other hearts would ache.

At the Boston fire, six stories above the pavement four men and women were seen clinging to the stone work. There being a network of wires in front of the building, it was impossible to get a ladder to them; so, one after the other, the four jumped, and a great groan went up from the crowd in the street. The unfortunates were picked up unconscious, and it is not probable that any of them has survived. In Boston, as elsewhere, it is preferred that human beings, rather than the wires of rich corporations, shall be placed under ground.

LEGISLATIVE PARALYSIS.

Complaints of legislative inefficiency or paralysis are becoming more frequent as years go by and are not confined to any particular section of the country. If we can judge from the legislative reports of the States this year parliamentary government has broken down. The most popular and most needed measures are defeated while the repeal of an unpopular or harmful law seems to be almost as difficult to accomplish. In Connecticut and Ohio this paralysis is complete, in New Jersey the activity of the Legislature has been wholly absorbed furthering the interests of a gang of race track gamblers, while in Missouri the tale is too familiar and too mournful to justify repetition.

It will be found that in every instance the failure of the popular leaders to get measures through to enlarge the public good is due either to the interference of some powerful commercial or financial interest whose privileges are threatened or indirectly endangered or to certain personal considerations arising from social relations which are getting to be terribly potent for evil in American politics.

In this State it is notorious that not a single bill can be passed unless permission is first obtained of a lobby composed of three or four astute representatives of railway companies and other corporations. Nothing of consequence has been done during this session, but at the demand or with the permission of this lobby.

GOING IT BLIND.

Before the local nominating conventions were held the POST-DISPATCH sought the direction of the campaign into channels which would make its outcome of practical benefit to citizens by submitting to all candidates for the mayoralty a series of questions on local matters of importance.

The replies were in the main valuable, because the candidates who gave any attention to the matter dealt in glittering generalities and promises without attempting to intelligently define attitudes or outline policies on questions pressing for vigorous action in behalf of popular interests.

The platform adopted by the Democratic and Republican Conventions failed to give the sort of practical direction needed to bring the best results. The Democrats in devoting nearly all of their platform to national and State issues and in singling out the free library, excellent as it is in itself, for its only local issue made a laughable farce of the instrument as the basis of a local campaign. The Republican platform was a vast improvement upon this, but it still fell short of the demands of the situation. While pledging its candidates to several desirable reforms in particular and beneficial policies in general it overlooked some of the burning questions now before St. Louisans and failed to clearly define methods and purposes.

The people, therefore, are asked to support candidates without definite information of their purposes with reference to the most important matters of local concern. No candidate has told the citizens, whose suffrages he asks, whether he favors or opposes the interference of the Legislature to force upon the city measures which citizens do not want, whether he favors or opposes the confiscation of private property for improvements which are wanted only by syndicates or contractors with pulls. No candidate has attempted to outline an intelligent view of the question of putting the wires under ground or has told whether or not he favors the granting of valuable subway franchises in such a manner that the city will control it and will realize the fair returns to which it is entitled. No candidate has suggested a plan to insure the protection of the health of citizens or has pledged himself to a practical plan of cleaning the city and keeping it clean. No candidate has expressed any clear views with regard to the disposal of franchises for the benefit of the city.

The voters are ignorant of the fitness of candidates to deal with these pressing questions which must come before them during the terms of the offices sought. They are asked to go to the polls and vote blindly for men because they are Democrats or Republicans. If citizens consent to this folly—if they fail to obtain from every man asking their support a fair expression of his views and purposes and a pledge to carry them out, they cannot complain if the result of the election is the same fast and loose, inefficient, corrupt and damaging administration of the city's affairs which has cost its people so much in the past.

SCIENCE AND PUGILISM.

A local medical man deserves the thanks of such refined and cultured persons who may have been unable to find an opening by which to get in touch with the prevailing craze for pugilism. This disciple of Esculapius has suggested that a pugilistic set-to may be viewed, not as a brutal slugging match, but as a practical and interesting exhibition of scientific skill and knowledge and an instructive demonstration of anatomy.

This view of the case was illustrated by an analysis of the process by which Mr. Hall was rendered insensible for the length of time denoted by the rules of the prize fight as sufficient to put him out of the fight. According to our learned medical friend the deciding blow delivered by Mr. Fitzsimmons was not merely a knock-out blow or as it was described by the sports a "clever tap on the point of the jaw," which put Hall to sleep, but it was an impact on the apex of the inferior carotid triangle, by which the shaft of the inferior maxillary was shoved up, pressing violently against the temporal bone, which in turn pressed on the veins, arteries and nerves leading into the brain and caused a concussion that produced a temporary paralysis in the sensory motor nerves. Under the influence of this temporary paralysis Mr. Hall passed into that state which is designated in pug parlance as "sleep," and was therefore unable to come to time with his "dukes." It will doubtless be pleasing to Mr. Fitzsimmons to know, if he is not already familiar with the subject, that a similar impact delivered just below and three-quarters of an inch back of the ear, where all the prominent arteries and nerves converge to enter the base of the brain, would have had the same effect.

Thus science triumphs over brute force and the prize ring becomes an educational institution and a factor in the advancement of the human race. Following this line of development it may be more important to teach prize fighters about the hinge joint in the mauloid pass, the inferior carotid triangle, the maxillary and the veins, nerves and arteries converging at knock-out spots than to teach them how to duck and counter. Blood shedding may be banished from the ring as vulgar and unnecessary. Sunday-schools and female seminaries may be taken by their principals to see a prize-fight to study science, just as they are taken now to circuses to study the animal kingdom. The only difference between the prize fighter of the future and the plain scientist will be the ability to place his fist on his opponent's nerves and arteries and keep his own out of reach of the other man's fist. And the term, Professor of the Manly Art, will be given a significance it has not hitherto had.

THE Government report just made public on what is known as farmers' reserves—amount of grain back on the farms—has been looked forward to with unusual interest this year, and, as usual, estimates as to the probable amount have widely varied. That generally reliable publication, the Cincinnati Price Current, placed the amount at 85,000,000 bushels and New York and Chicago estimates ranged from 85,000,000 to 100,000,000 bushels. Two weeks ago the POST-DISPATCH made its estimate, figuring the amount at 140,000,000 bushels, thus far exceeding all other guesses. The actual amount reported by Statistician Dodge is 135,000,000 bushels, only 5,000,000 bushels less than the POST-DISPATCH figures, and 55,000,000 bushels above the maximum of other estimates. One year ago the estimates ranged from 138,000,000 bushels of the New York Produce Exchange Statistician and 142,000,000 bushels of the Cincinnati Price Current to 172,000,000 bushels of the POST-DISPATCH. The Government figures were 171,000,000 bushels.

DISCOURAGED by the reception of their own verses, many writers of original poetry are now copying poems written long ago by successful authors and sending them to newspapers and magazines as new. One of the leading magazines has recently published as original a poem written fifty years ago. There is no denying the man with verses, and the woman who makes them is equally hard-headed.

A GREAT English authority once declared that the man who would make a pun would pick a pocket; but now we have a young English poet, patronized by Mr. Gladstone and Lord Roseberry, going to prison for four months for stealing 3 shillings. Must young Englishmen refrain from poetry as well as puns?

A FEW Chicagoese are agitating for free baths, though their city has no money to pay for such things. It is thought, perhaps, by these pioneers, that if baths could be had for nothing the novelty of the thing might lead a good many of their fellow-citizens to try one.

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX says that in summer "even the sun flames hot with love." As all the ladies carry parasols, this is not a matter of great importance; but what is to become of the plain sex, very few of whom are provided with sun umbrellas?

The man in Massachusetts with only one arm and fourteen wives will be looking around for some other fair one to hug as soon as his penitentiary term expires. When a man with but one arm accomplishes so much, no lover with two need despair.

As the Columbian Exposition gates were made wide enough for Chicago ladies to pass through, there will be ample space for female visitors in crinolines to make their way in.

PROFANATORS thumpers who expect to meet Mr. Fitzsimmons in the ring should be allowed to protect their inferior carotid triangle with a base ball mask.

MR. DE CHAIR should be a little cautious in talking about his equatorial forest, otherwise it will presently be gobbled by speculators.

The crowd at the Fitzsimmons-Hall prize fight is described as "magnificent." Is this our American magnificence?

The Sunday Saloon Question.

The Legislature should pass the bill to let the people of each city vote on the question of opening the saloons of Sunday afternoon.

The matter concerns the people of the cities alone. The conditions existing in cities are wholly unlike those in the country. The saloons at large, and these conditions are fully understood only by those who live in the cities. They only are qualified to give a sound judgment in the case.

Under the existing laws the saloons are prohibited to be closed during the whole of Sunday. But in New York City the saloons are closed and cannot be kept closed. The law cannot be enforced because public opinion here does not approve its enforcement.

The need for a law that will meet the conditions and one which will satisfy public opinion and be susceptible of enforcement.

The proposition to open the saloons on Sunday afternoons has the approval of many of our wisest public men, clergymen, reformers and students of social conditions. If it also meets the approval of a majority of the people concerned it should be made law. A vote alone can decide that question, and it should be submitted to a vote.

Concerning T. B. Reed.

About the most important figure in the Republican party at the present moment is Thomas Brackett Reed of Maine. He is still looking for the support of the party in the composition of a touch of the grimace if not the gloom of the irreconcilable, but he is man enough for it to be said of him that the broader his back the more it hides of what lies behind him. He accepted defeat with all the humor and none of the dandyism of Mr. Dewey and Mr. Eld; he has been down looking for the support of the party in the composition of a touch of the grimace if not the gloom of the irreconcilable, but he is man enough for it to be said of him that the broader his back the more it hides of what lies behind him. ARE UNFIT FOR USE

Horrible Condition of Supplies Furnished City Institutions.

COMMISSIONER GILBERT INVESTIGATES WITH STARTLING RESULTS.

How the City Hospital Provisions Are Stored and What Observation and Analysis of Their Condition Revealed—An Illustration of How the City Is Cheated.

From time to time there have been complaints from the various city institutions as to the quality and the quantity of the provisions being supplied them under the grocery contracts. The requisitions, after passing the cutting and receiving of Health Commissioner Brennan and the close watch of Comptroller Stevenson, left but very little margin to go on in the point of quantity. Occasionally reports would be heard to the effect that the quality of provisions furnished was such that it was necessary to simply reject the entire delivery and insist upon a new supply. Yesterday Supply Commissioner Gilbert was informed of several instances where the contracts were not being properly handled and he, to satisfy himself made a tour of the institutions in company with a Post-Dispatch reporter. The places visited included the City Hospital, the Insane Asylum, the Poor-house and the Female Hospital. In every one of these except the Insane Asylum there were deplorable conditions encountered, but at the Insane Asylum the store-rooms were as neat and clean as the most critical could desire, and a positive, strong stand had been made by the Superintendent upon the grocery question, so that he got just what he ordered. The other places were in a sad state, however, and especially the City Hospital, where one part of the store-room is in a shed, which no self-respecting private family would use for a coal shed. The rest of the stores were in a basement room of the building proper. Dr. Marks was very much dissatisfied with what he had been getting.

FIT FOR HOGS ONLY.
An inspection was made. Their butter, which under the contract should be choice creamery, was what Dr. Marks asserted was cold storage butter, which had been frozen for some time, and which a day or two after it was opened began to grow rancid and bad so that it was hardly possible to use it. Prunes the City Hospital had abandoned altogether, consignments of them having been rejected as being in a horrible condition. Then turning to the dried apples and peaches, which in the samples provided with the bids were a very superior article, there was exhibited another sad state of affairs. The apples were, according to the experts who examined them, about as low grade as could be found anywhere and the peaches were simply repulsive. The other lines from a casual examination were not nearly up to the standard and the vinegar under the microscope was a source of amusement and instruction as it developed a quantity of wriggling eels and snakes and such, which were the provoking and disgusting badinage among the doctors and the Commissioner, who on this occasion variably saw snakes.

Dr. Marks had long ago been reduced to a state of hopelessness. He had kicked and kicked and sent back orders until he was tired and finally restricted himself to the simplest lines he could get. Commissioner Gilbert asked how the half-barrels of salt mackerel were received and how near they were to the contract weight. At the City Hospital they had not a full half-barrel on hand, so nothing further was done as to mackerel there, and a visit was paid to the institutions out on Poverty Hill, the Female Hospital being visited first. Here the supply was so scanty, thanks to Dr. Brennan, that a test case could hardly be made, the steward, in reply to almost every inquiry, stating that "they had none of that now," leaving the choice of fare between salt fish and pork. Short of tea, and getting along as best it could with a scanty stock of groceries and 500 sick women in the place, the Female Hospital was in a predicament, although the stock of groceries was medium good. Then the Insane Asylum was visited, and there the only satisfactory condition of affairs existed. The store-room was neat as a pin, everything in its proper place, and the floor, bins, boxes and barrels all as clean as they could possibly be, and the quality of the groceries 25 per cent better than at any of the other places visited.

A SAMPLE CASE OF ROBERT.
The Poor-house was next, and list, and there where from 900 to 1,100 paupers and incurable insane have been fed every day this winter. It was the choice of fare between the fresh meat was usually good, the butter, meal and other groceries were somewhat better specifications than the rest, but the meat was made of the salt mackerel. It is used here in large quantities and forms a very important item. A half barrel which had just been emptied for use that day was put on the scale and weighed and just as the Post-Dispatch reporter called for 20 pounds, the weight of the barrel was 10 pounds. A fresh barrel of the same kind was also put on the scale and weighed and the weight was 10 pounds. When the entire half-barrel was empty of its contents, the weight was 10 pounds. The eleven-pound barrel with its contents only weighed seventy-five pounds, giving a net weight of sixty-four pounds. When the contract demanded 100, at every one of the institutions the butter was reported bad at some time and place, and the Post-Dispatch reporter was very frequent occurrence to send back good because of inferior quality and have them returned within a few hours either of the same quality or the same identical articles as were rejected.

TIM CARROLL GETS OUT A WARRANT AGAINST GUARD MARTIN COLEMAN.

He Charges Coleman With Having Brutally Assaulted Him—The Old Man Says That Inmates Are Assaulted Without Provocation—Struck With a Bat—Police News.

An old man with gray beard, giving his name as Tim Carroll, called at the Prosecuting Attorney's office to-day and applied for a warrant against Martin Coleman, an employee of the Poor-house, on the ground of assault. Carroll stated that he is 75 years old, and had been an inmate of the Poor-house. He charged that on last Monday Coleman beat him. Coleman, he said, is a young man about 25 years old and is the head gardener at the Poor-house.

According to Carroll's story he was working on last Monday under a man named Luke Cosgrove, who has charge of a gang of men. Coleman wanted to put Carroll to do something else and Carroll refused, when he stated Coleman struck him three times with his fist, knocking him down, and kicked him twice in the side after he was down. Carroll stated that he applied to Supt. Gallagher for a pass to go out to get a warrant against Coleman, and Gallagher refused to give him the pass. He then went out, he states, on his own account, and applied for a warrant last Tuesday against Coleman before Justice of the Peace Jeff Pollard. Carroll stated that Pollard issued the warrant, but when he went back yesterday he was told that the Constable did not have time to serve it, and he was told to prosecute Coleman in the Court of Criminal Correction. Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Estep told Carroll that if Pollard had issued the warrant he could do nothing in the matter.

Carroll said that he is 65 years old and had been in the Poor-house for seven weeks. He had been a laborer. He could work still, but for his eyes, which are bad. He has two grown sons, who are brakemen, but he does not know where they are. His wife has been dead for fourteen years. He has no other children, he says, and no friends. He cannot get back into the Poor-house, he says, having left it without a pass. He is stopping at 1206 North Broadway. He says that the employees abuse the inmates shamefully on the slightest provocation, and sometimes for nothing at all. He recalled several instances, giving the names of the employees, and the men who beat them. He said he saw a dining-room man knock down and kick an old man 70 years old about three weeks ago for jostling him. He said that when inmates complain to Gallagher he pays no attention to them.

COUGHT TO BE KNOWN.

A Most Seasonable Item of Good News.

Something That the Public Can Depend Upon at this Trying Season.

And Something Which Is Easily Within the Reach of All.

Newburg, N. Y., has had a sensation. It seems that H. S. Shorter, Esq., an old resident of 75 years of age, who resides at 891 Broadway, Newburg, began to grow languid, got tired easily, was nervous and debilitated, until at last he became so weak and exhausted that he was just able to drag himself around. He lost flesh and strength so rapidly and became so alarmingly prostrated that his friends and relatives despaired of his life.

Now came the marvelous change. Suddently Mr. Shorter was transformed from his condition of extreme weakness to one of strength. His nerves grew quickly strong and steady, his muscles became vigorous, his blood was revived and enriched, he gained fifteen pounds in weight, and to-day he is in sound and perfect health. Such a remarkable transformation in a man of his age was a nine days' wonder.

Of course the cause was eagerly looked for. And the following astonishing facts are stated exactly as they tell from Mr. Shorter's own lips:

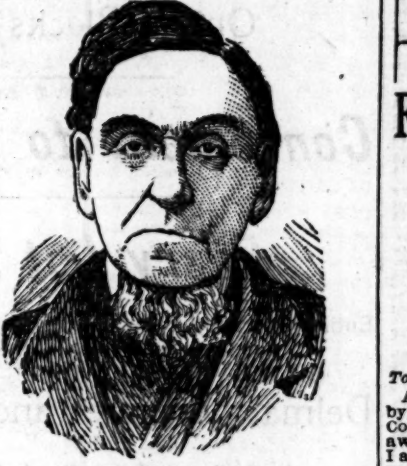

"I feel like a new man!"

Most warm of feeling of an old man of 75 years, physically weak and broken down, and making him feel like a boy again! Giving him new life, health and strength, and adding fifteen pounds of solid flesh to his weak and debilitated frame!

"And all in two months, with three bottles of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy! Well, that is just what has taken place in me. Instead of being weak, debilitated and exhausted, just like I was myself, I feel now like a new man! I advise all to use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy."

This is the best news possible, especially at this season of the year when everybody is thinking about the spring medicine. The wonderful remedy is just what you need, and if you use it you will find that it will make a new person of you in feeling and health. It is the ideal spring medicine, because it is the most perfect blood invigorator and nerve strengthener yet discovered.

It is purely vegetable and harmless, and druggists keep it for $1. Doctors recommend it, indeed it is the prescription and discovery of one of our most prominent physicians, Dr. Greene, the successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, of 35 W. 14th st., New York. He can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

Garrik as Paul Kauvar—Mendelssohn Quintette Club.

The fourth concert of the Cecilia course was given last night at Entertainment Hall by the Mendelssohn Quintette Club. The members of the club are Herman Diestel, William Diestel, Sol Marcosson, Thomas Ryan, Henry Herbert and Miss Lila Juel.

Miss Juel, who is a Swedish singer, was particularly full and strong. A well-selected program was excellently rendered. "Paul Kauvar," Thomas Garrik, who is a native of St. Louis, was the only one of the number who should be so fortunate as to win the World's Fair trip and hotel bill.

Paul Kauvar last night proved that he possesses far more than an ordinary amount of talent. His acting was strong and forceful, but there was no suspicion of rant. A large number of his friends witnessed the performance.

A GOLD WATCH WON.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 19, 1893.

To the Post-Dispatch:—I hereby acknowledge receipt of the gold watch, which I esteem very highly, it being the second prize in the Bible contest. With many thanks for the handsome present, I am very respectfully,

CLAUDE MITCHELL, De Mot, Mo.

TO WASHINGTON, D. C. OFFICE OF RECORDS OF DEEDS.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 27, 1893.

To the Post-Dispatch:—I hereby acknowledge receipt of your order for the two first trip tickets to the Exposition at Washington, D. C., so kindly offered by you as first prize in your last Sunday's contest. I shall very soon be glad to go to the Exposition for affording me the pleasure to be derived from the trip, also for sending me over the Big Four Chesapeake & Ohio road. Mrs. F. and I will probably start Wednesday morning. With many thanks, I remain yours at command.

F. A. FARMAN, Head of Billy Hobbs' Bible Class.

A GOLD WATCH WON.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Feb. 17.

To the Post-Dispatch:—I write to thank you for watch received to-day as third prize in Sunday's Bible verse contest. I prize it highly for the manner in which I won it. While I have a good one which I have carried for years, I will wear the one received from the Post-Dispatch with a good deal of pride. I have been a subscriber to the daily Post-Dispatch for about ten years and am now. Very respectfully,

Mrs. J. A. FLATNER, 177 Waverly place.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF VARIOUS PRIZES.

ST. LOUIS, March 3, 1893.

To the Post-Dispatch:—Please accept my thanks for the prize I won in the Sunday contest. Respectfully,

Mrs. J. A. FLATNER, 177 Waverly place.

To the Post-Dispatch:—I beg to say that I saw Mr. H. M'NICHOL today. He won the nineteenth prize. He is a good man. Yours, respectfully,

JOHN FILLMAN, Post-Dispatch.

LIFE SHOULD BE GAY.

M'NICHOL CAN MAKE IT SO.

None should be gloomy, none should repine. Nature intended us all to be gay. The rich or the poor he treats alike—well. Brighter and warmer some other day. Spend not our time in the pursuit of sorrow. Let every moment improve to the utmost. Promise yourself to be better to-morrow. And raise up your babies about you to hearth.

"Ah, yes," say you, "it sounds well, I own. But when good fortune has left you alone, How make a fortune, I'd be well to know. Talking is easy—imagine things— But how to perform them, that is the pickle." There is one way when poverty stricken— Strike as quick as you can for the Only M'NICHOL.

Mac has heard every tale you could tell. Well does he know how some folks must live. The rich or the poor he treats alike—well. And hearty, indeed, is the comfort he'll give. Do not wait for money, lamps, dishes or basket. Take just a little bit out of your wages. Now, any fellow who wants just a little bit of money, but a better way to become happy and comfortable has never been devised than this ingenious plan of yours.

Nothing is simpler than Mac's payment plan. Better than anything heard of before! So be happy now, the way of helping the people. The rich or the poor he treats alike—well. Furniture, carpets—the best in the land. Draperies, clocks, lamps, dishes and basket. Whatever you like is yours to command. Do not for me want just a little bit of money, but a better way to become happy and comfortable has never been devised than this ingenious plan of yours.

P. E. M'NICHOL is like no other dealer. He goes, he prices, his way of helping the people is strictly his own. He keeps the finest household goods, and sells them lower than any one else.
